Relative Adoptions

More and more children in Southern Nevada find themselves being raised by step-parents, grandparents, and other family members. Adopting these children can create permanency and stability and is strongly favored under Nevada Law. The Firm's attorneys can help relatives bypass the typical hurdles that non-family members face during the adoption process saving both time and money for those seeking to adopt step-children, grandchildren, nieces, and nephews.

Termination of Parental Rights

The Firm's attorneys have extensive experience terminating parental rights to clear the path toward adoption and work closely with several local agencies and will work privately with individuals and couples.

- Relinquishments of parental rights
- Neglect and abuse
- Abandonment
- Unfitness
- Token efforts
- Contested terminations
- "John Doe" terminations

Guardianship

Sometimes adoption is not practical, but individuals or families find themselves temporarily caring for a child while the parent(s) are unable. Guardianship can provide the means to make decisions for school and medical care in those situations. The Firm's attorneys have broad and deep experience in securing guardianships through the courts.
