ATTORNEYS

Aaron M. Polonsky is an associate attorney with the Firm, practicing in ad hoc areas – currently most predominantly in insurance defense.

Aaron is a proud G-d-fearing, religious Jew first and foremost. He strives to live in accordance with Torah values. In undergrad, he was a Founding Father of the Alpha Epsilon Pi fraternity. In law school, he joined and wound up becoming the president of the Jewish Law Student Association.

Also in law school, Aaron was a continuous member of the Sports & Entertainment Law Association and has been a fan of most sports since he started playing as a kindergartener. He has authored multiple sports articles, on topics such as baseball free agency, sports betting, and NFL player safety.

In his free time, Aaron enjoys the gift of a healthy body and mind and works to maintain it through regular holistic exercise, a paleo-based diet, stretching, travel, reading, learning, prayer, sports, outdoor activities, and meaningful time with loved ones.

Overall, Aaron tries to live the best life he can while appreciating all the gifts G-d gives. He seeks challenges – both physical and mental – as well as building genuine positive relationships with others.
